A diagnosis of Crohn's disease can occur at any point throughout life, with a high occurrence in young children and then again around 40-50 years of age.